2022 DESIGN TRENDS FOR KITCHEN & BATH

As the latest renovation season ramps up, new kitchen and bath trends are emerging — with a few stand-out design ideas at the forefront. Sometimes, it's smart to steer clear of trends when you're renovating your kitchen, so you don't get tired of a spur-of-the-moment design a few years down the road. That said, 2022 is looking pretty classic when it comes to kitchen and bath design. If you're planning to renovate this year, you'll be able to stay up-to-date without ever going out-of-date.

Here are some of the most popular trends of the moment that will age flawlessly in the coming years.

APRON / FARMHOUSE SINKS

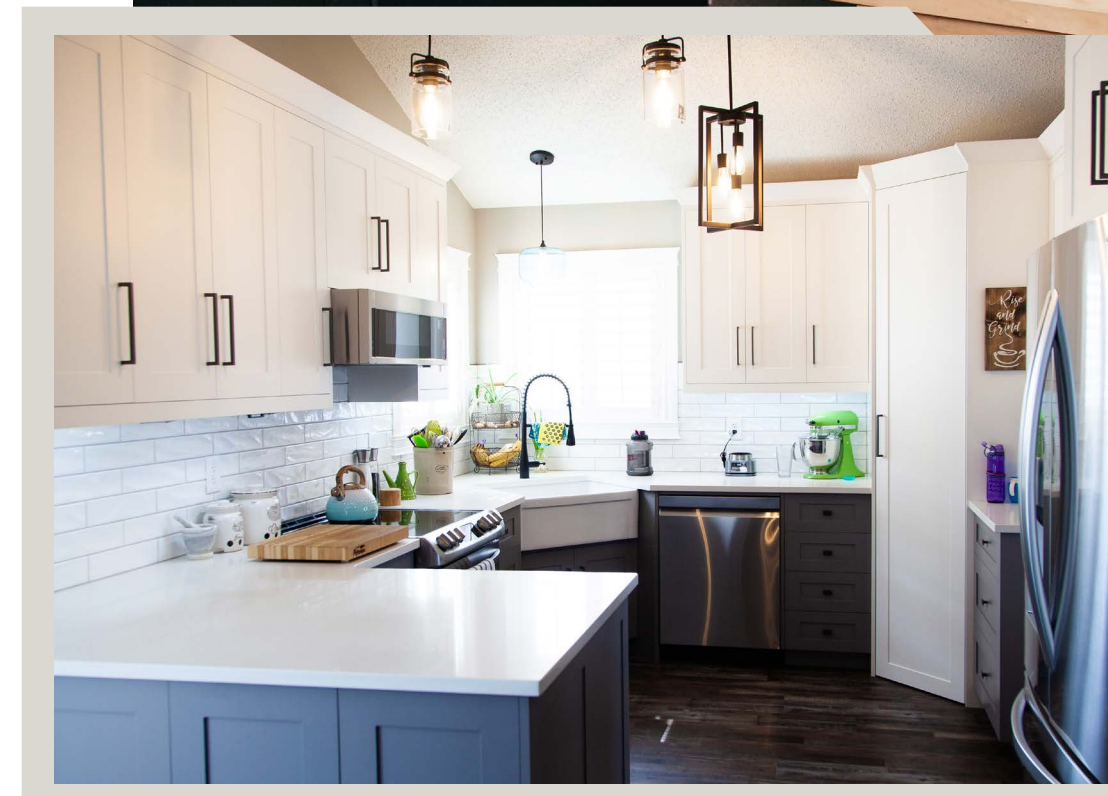

Apron sinks — also called farmhouse sinks — are a sink style with a wide single or double basin. Typically, the sink is exposed in the front for aesthetic purposes.

This style of sink has been used in various capacities for decades, providing a large amount of functionality without sacrificing its specific design.

Are there any drawbacks to putting in a farmhouse sink? White farmhouse sinks are made out of “fire clay,” which is formed in a mold. Though this look is quite popular, white materials — especially in a sink — can stain. It takes a little more upkeep to stay shiny and clean, compared to stainless steel.

We install farmhouse sinks in white, stainless steel, and black granite so you can easily find a sink to suit your style.

GOLD FINISHES & ACCESSORIES

Somewhat surprisingly, gold finishes are actually back in style. Brass has been big in decades past, but this new 2022 trend has returned looking classier and more subtle than ever before.

Modern gold finishes feature a brushed look, and gold features make for snazzy additions to cabinet drawers, doors, sinks, or any other feature.

Gold features can make a splash in either a kitchen or a bathroom. Don't be afraid to experiment with uncommon pairings - gold and gray, for instance, are a popular colour combination in 2022.

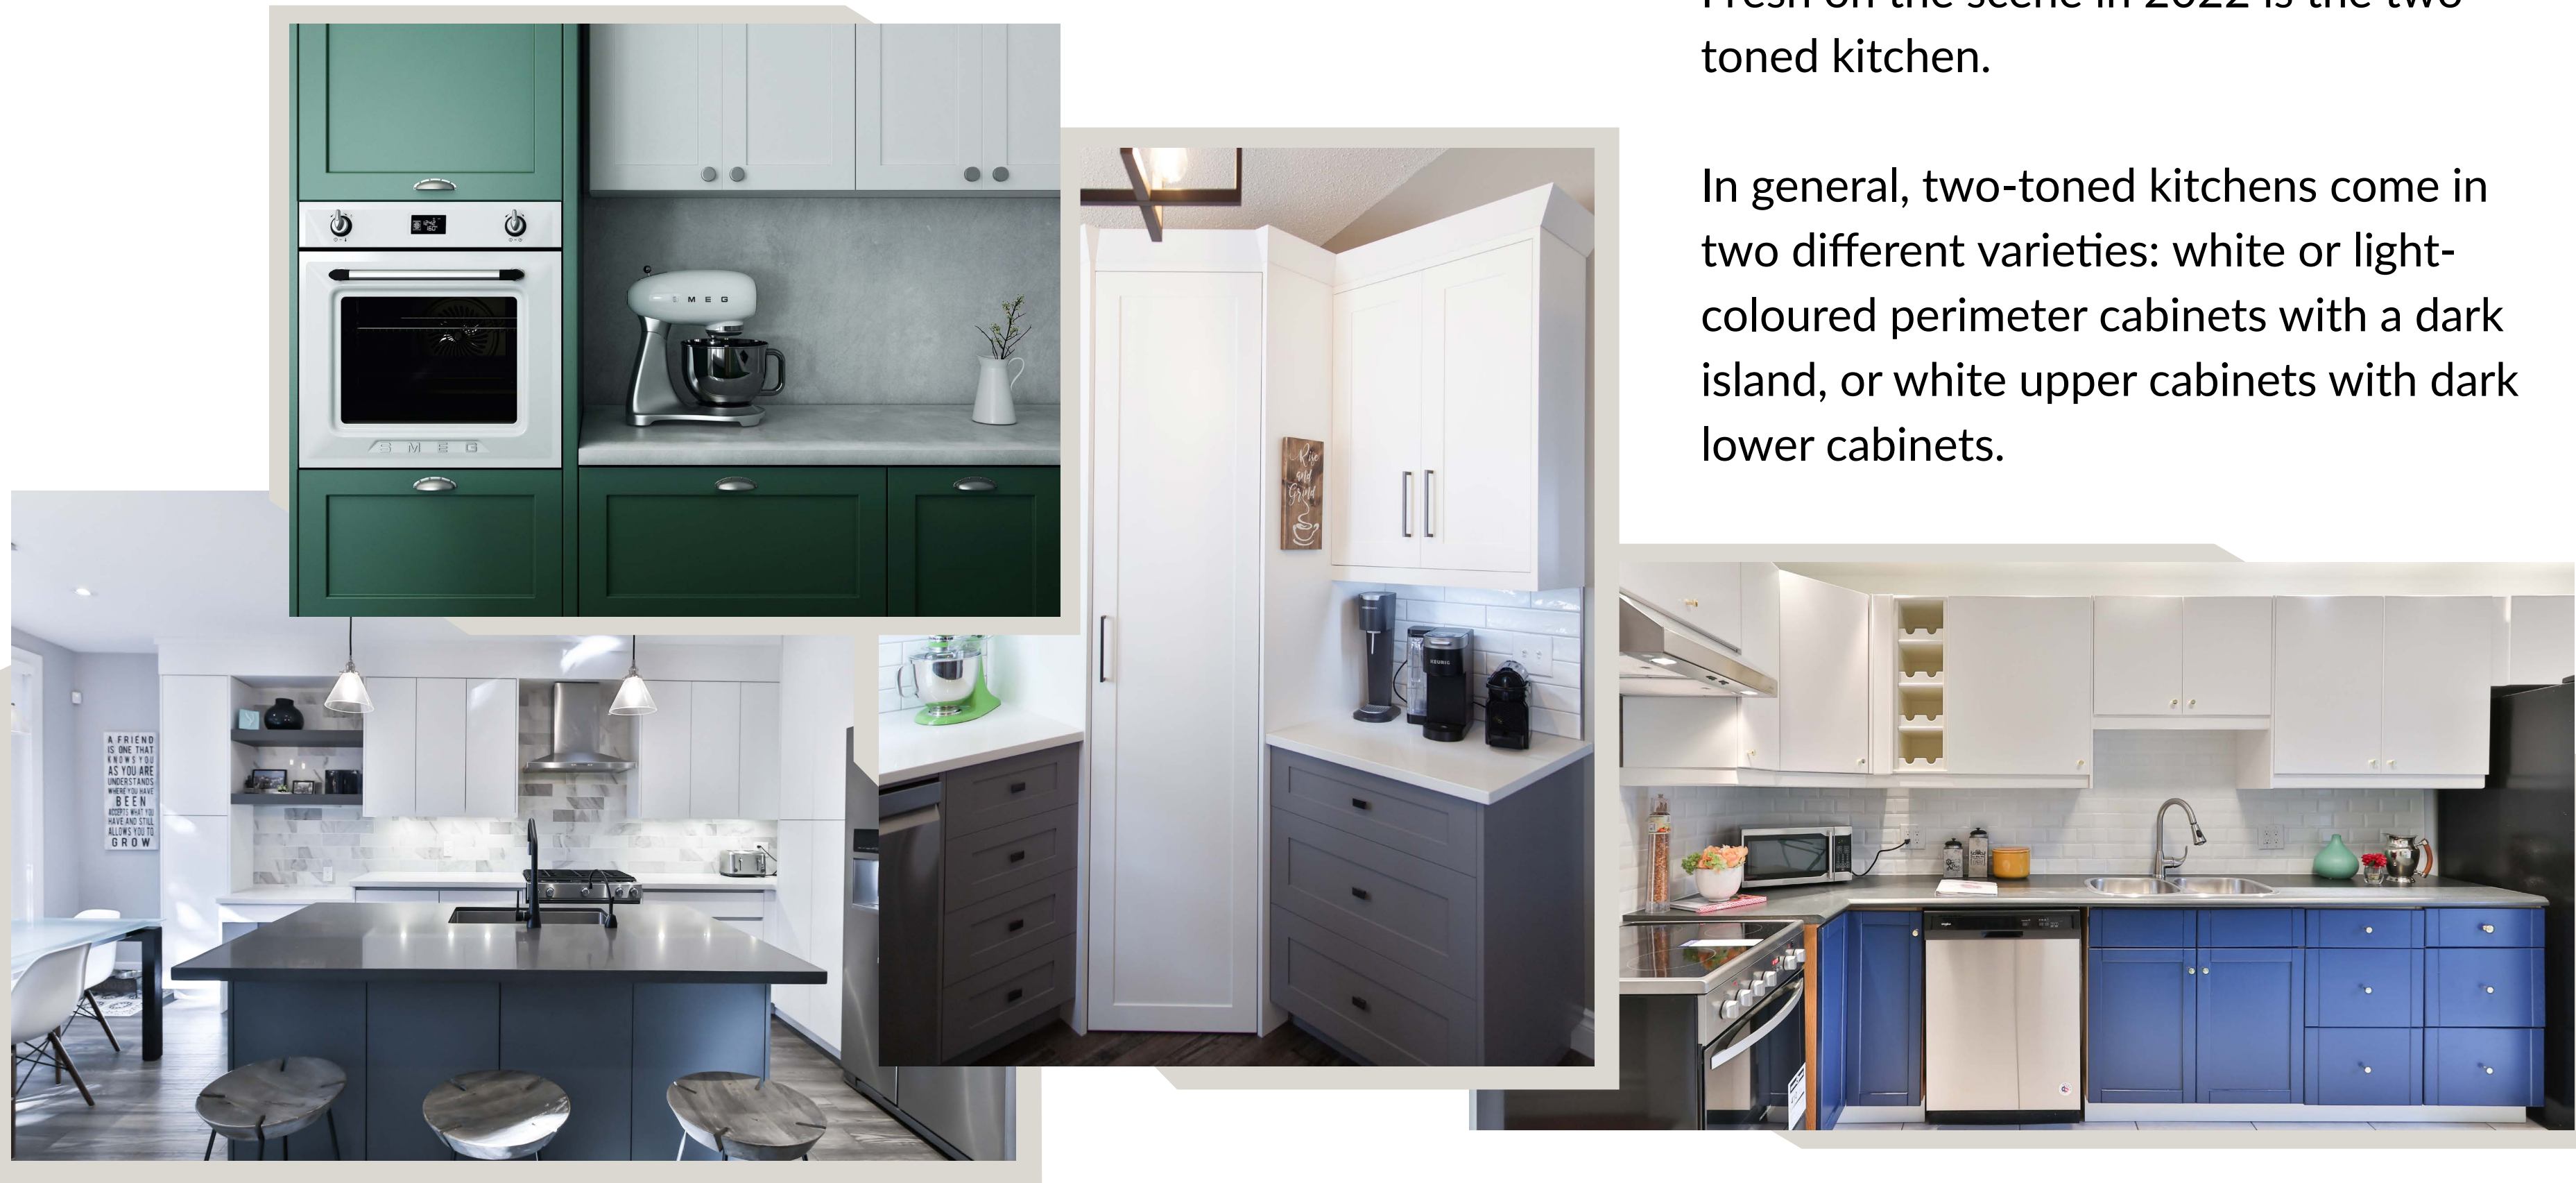

If you're looking to choose hardware that's eye-catching without being too gaudy, opt for gold.

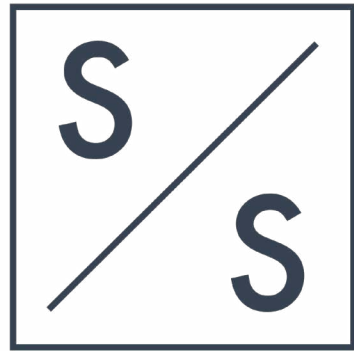

TWO-TONED KITCHENS

Fresh on the scene in 2022 is the two-toned kitchen.

In general, two-toned kitchens come in two different varieties: white or light-coloured perimeter cabinets with a dark island, or white upper cabinets with dark lower cabinets.

Mixing up your cabinet colours adds dimension to your kitchen, and it can even make your space feel bigger. Painting your upper cabinets white, for instance, creates an optical illusion, making your kitchen appear taller and airier.

A two-toned kitchen gives you a way to experiment with cabinet colours without extending it to your entire kitchen. Want a pop of colour, but nervous to go all-out on your cabinets? Paint just your island or your lower cabinets, and get the best of both worlds.
